

A runaway accident which might have resulted more seriously happened to Chris Overby and family last Sunday evening. They had been to the home of Hendrick Olson to spend the day, and on returning home in the evening the double tree on the buggy broke, which frightened the horses, and it was impossible for Mr. Overby to control them. Somehow, Mr. Overby, wife and one child got out of the buggy, but the two other children remained in until the horses broke loose and left the buggy. None of the family were injured except getting a good shaking-up, and it was miraculous that all escaped so luckily.
