

The Times news columns have been somewhat abbreviated lately on account of the editor playing three and four games of baseball every week. We ask our readers' kind indulgence, with a promise of something better in the near future — and anyhow it's too hot to work.