

for their success.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Rickford was brought to town last Thursday to have his hand, which had been injured quite badly, treated by Dr. Truscott. The little fellow was playing by the barn while his father was at work putting hay in the barn, by means of a hay carrier. He evidently had hold of the rope and failed to let go when his hand got near the pulley, with the result that it was badly lacerated and some of the tips of the fingers torn off. Luckily, he wore a pair of mittens or the accident might have been a whole lot worse.
