

A. D. Shaw is again in control of the Hub restaurant, the change having been made last Saturday. Nearly a year ago he leased the place to Melby & Peterson of Fargo, who conducted the place for a short time, until Mr. Peterson retired and sold his interest to a brother of his former partner. Another change was made in a short time, L. Klemetson buying an interest, and still another when H. Lindblad purchased the interest of H. Melby. This changing of hands did not work to advantage and consequently the reputation of this popular eating house suffered. Binford residents and the farmers and also the travelling public are especially pleased that the Shaws have again assumed the active management of the restaurant. Both Mr. and Mrs. Shaw are expert cooks and they figure nothing is too good for their patrons. Everything is wholesome and clean. The old Hub has given Binford a lot of good advertising and much credit is due to Mr. and Mrs. Shaw.
