

Hannaford Enterprise: The Binford Times says: George Stockeland came up from Hannaford Tuesday, and while here disposed of his building on Main Street to Andrew Dahlin. We understand Mr. Dahlin's automobile figured in the deal." Mr. Stockeland will show the boys a thing or two next spring when he starts scorching along the roads with his oughtomobubble. First thing he'll teach it how to jump ditches and climb telephone poles, and next thing he'll be endeavoring to "learn the critter" to run the barber shop while he himself is enjoying his morning nap.
