

DILLS.

The play, "A Pair of Artists", will be given by the Binford band on Friday evening, April 9. The characters have practically memorized their parts, and the intervening time from now on will be devoted to getting in the proper action. A dance will follow the play and the band will give a concert. Space forbids an extended write-up this week, but it will appear in our next issue. Make your plans to attend, as this will be the one big social function after Easter.
