

The coal famine was relieved a little Tuesday morning. Monday's freight brought the promised car for Thompson Yards, and from the time the car was opened early in the morning a steady stream of wagons were loaded, each one getting a small "jag," sufficient to tide them over until further shipments are delivered here. This car was divided among 62 patrons.

Miss Alma Ford was hostess Tues-