

Lightning struck the cupolo of the Acme elevator last Friday evening, and set a fire in two or three places. The dust on the floor in the cupolo and the boards along the leg were hit. Fortunately the fire went out of its own accord. The feathers of a pigeon which was in the cupolo was practically burned off. Many of the telephones in the city were put out of commission.