

---

Signposts have been placed on all the roads leading into town, warning auto drivers to observe the speed laws within the limits of the village, and it is hoped that all will obey the law so that no prosecutions will be necessary. The authorities are determined that the speed maniac will have to cease his reckless driving through the streets, and wish to impress it upon all drivers that the practise must be discontinued, or suffer the consequences.