

DISTRICT COURT HAS ADJOURNED

There Were Twelve Cases on the Calendar and all Disposed of But One.

The spring session of the district court opened May 24th at Coopers-town. There are twelve cases on the calendar, but three were settled out of court and one was continued over term. The other cases were disposed of and the court adjourned Friday afternoon.

Ole Almklov was found guilty of keeping liquor in his drugstore at Hannaford and was sentenced to ninety days in the county jail and a $200 fine.

G. W. Getts, a piano dealer, had a case against S. Almklov. Getts sued for payment on a piano, but it was proved that the piano had been paid for and Almklov was granted what he contended for.

Lewis Berg was plaintiff in two cases; one against the Farmers' Elevator and one against the Great Western Elevator, both at Jessie. The cases grew out of the elevators buying grain from Berg's renter and paying him for it altho Berg claimed the money. Mr. Berg won both cases.

F. W. Blocker sued S. Flick for commission on a land deal which Blocker attempted to put thru. The deal was not according to contract and Blocker lost his case.

Claus Jackson won a case against Arne Luckason. The case involved payment of supplies furnished by Jackson to Luckason's renter.

The following applicants were granted naturalization papers: Lars J. Lerum, Ed Fiebiger, Lars Skarbo, Nils J. Norness, Bernhard Hegvik, Sven Fors, Carl Frederickson, Fred D. Cannon.

HANNA PROCLAIMS JUNE 14 FLAG DAY

Asks People of North Dakota to Observe the Day in Proper Spirit.

Governor L. B. Hanna issued the following proclamation:

"Emblematic of liberty and justice the Stars and Stripes for one hundred and thirty-eight years has held a proud position among the nations of the world. Our original constellation of thirteen has been added to from time to time until today forty-eight stars shine within a field of blue, carrying to the far corners of the earth the message of our liberty, loyalty and patriotism.

"It is but human that in times of peace and plenty the spirit of patriotism among a people lies dormant—not dead but sleeping—to break forth with renewed vigor should danger threaten. We must remember that in foreign lands other people are following other flags with brave and loyal hearts and deep devotion; and so let us bestir ourselves that we do not fall behind in love of flag and country, and let us give added reverence and devotion to Old Glory, symbolical of a great nation and a patriotic people.

"Now, therefore, I, L. B. Hanna, Governor of the State of North Dakota, do hereby proclaim Monday,
