

Harry McCoy, who was employed in the meat market here last fall returned on Tuesday from Omaha, Neb., where he had spent the winter. He will again be employed at his old job, taking the place of Osmund Tjeltwedt, who has resigned. Mr. McCoy is a first-class butcher and the patrons of the shop are pleased that he has returned. Mr. Tjeltwedt plans on filing on a homestead in the Berthold reservation. During the summer he will be employed with Tweed's carpenter crew.
