John Norman received special mention in this week's Sentinel-Courier on a carved screen, which was on exhibition at the Griggs County fair last week. The Sentinel-Courier says: Among the many interesting exhibits in the ladies' building, was an elaborately carved screen by John Norman, of Binford. It attracted a great amount of attention among those who could appreciate such work—as wood carving seems to be almost a lost art—differing from fancy work produced by the ladies, which is becoming more varied and better than ever; but the great variety precludes special mention here.
