

macy.

Peter Ramffield went to St. Paul last week and returned Friday with his son, who had been receiving medical attention at a hospital there for the past few weeks. The boy has improved so much that he is now able to walk some with the aid of braces and crutches, which is good news to friends of the family.

Interesting news reached home of