A. J. Melgard is making a record recovery from his operation and intends to come home in a few days.

Chris Greenland of Binford came here last week to take H. B. Hanson's place at the hardware store. Mr. Hanson expects to leave this week for Montana where he will put in a crop of flax on the land belonging to him and his father. They will use an Emerson tractor in operating their plows, drags, drills, etc.

The Odd Fellows pulled off a very enjoyable anniversary celebration at the hall Monday night. A short program had been arranged, which consisted of readings by Miss May Parsons of Courtenay, a duet by Moore and Eda Peterson, and music by the "Sutton orchestra." At the close of the program the floor was cleared and the folks danced until midnight when a dandy lunch was served. This was followed by more dancing for a short time.

There were many complimentary things said by our people about the initial efforts of the Sutton orchestra Monday night. This aggregation is the outgrowth of several months practise, just for amusement by Ed Rhodes, violin, F. S. Marrs, cornet, and his daughter, Vera, the piano, at the Reporter home. Other instruments have recently been added, so Monday night in addition to the above, Prof. Bressler played the drums and Paul Hafner the trombone. The formation of this group seemed to have been a great surprise to our people.

Leo Ratcliffe, publisher of the Dazey Commercial, has been appointed postmaster, according to the Bismarck Tribune. There is an unwritten rule in this state that publishers have the next best show at this job after ex-soldiers. Had the local office paid sufficient to warrant a fight some of our proposed BOYCOTTERS (get that) would have learned where to get off. We are doing what we consider is as much as any other individual in an endeavor to put this town on the map, so all we will say right here is, we are entitled to a little more consideration, hereafter, on the part of those in whose power it lies to give it.—Sutton Reporter.
