F. G. Lewis and family of Binford were Sunday visitors at the home of A. J. Melgard and family.

H. P. Hammer and W. H. Butler of Cooperstown were business visitors in Sutton last Monday.

Arthur Ebentier came home Saturday from the hospital at Fargo where he had been for two months. Although he is rather weak, he is gaining rapidly after his long siege.

Rev. Theo. Gutznecht and wife, who have been missionaries to India for the past ten years, have returned to the United States and will spend some time here with Mrs. Gutznecht's sister, Mrs. J. W. Lieninger, and family.

The grounds at the school house were plowed last week and the board has been having 700 box elders set thereon. In due time grass seed will be sown. The site is an ideal location and in a few years, with the right kind of care it can be made a veritable beauty spot for the town.

Some of our band boys have been wandering if we will ever be able to play as well as the Binford aggregation. The answer is simple: yes, if we get down to hard work—and no if we do not. While all amateur musicians are devoting their time of music solely for the pleasure they derive from it, the ones who make any progress at it are invariably hard workers, giving as much careful consideration to it as they do to their business or other duties. The successful student of music imposes upon himself a task that in many cases is really hard labor in order to master the subject. When it comes to band or orchestra music the rule applies in a little broader sense. Each person is responsible not only to himself but to the other members, and unless he makes a business matter of it he is making no headway himself and is retarding the progress of the others. Lets hop to it and make a good band of our little aggregation. Try and persuade some one to join, especially from the country, and thus bring about a larger and stronger organization.—Reporter.
