

Albert Turk in Trouble.

Albert Turk, formerly a farmer west of Binford, has been getting in bad at Woodworth, where he owns a pool room. The Rustler has the following account of his arrest:

On complaint of A. L. Hotchkiss and J. M. Townsend a warrant was sworn out last Wednesday for the arrest of Albert Turk, charging him with keeping and maintaining a nuisance in his pool hall at this place. Sheriff Dana Wright and Deputy Fitzgerald came up last Thursday and served the papers, some thirteen witnesses being subpoenaed for the state. The case came up before Justice James A. Murphy at Jamestown Saturday but the witnesses were not needed as the defendant waived examination and was bound over to the county court, giving bonds for his appearance at that time. Messrs. Hotchkiss and Townsend informed the Rustler that there is going to be a cleaning up of Woodworth's bad places—of which number we have no idea at this time. Nothing like having a law abiding city and we are heartily in favor of seeing the laws rigidly enforced in Woodworth from now on. 'Tis a well known fact in Woodworth and vicinity that demand had been made of Turk for money on account of an old debt said to have been contracted years ago and unless he paid the same, he would be arrested. Section 9217 of the 1905 Codes of North Dakota says that such a person is guilty of extortion.
