A parcel shower by a large number of her lady friends was the happy surprise in store for Miss May Brill Tuesday evening. The party assembled at the lodge rooms after the Rebekahs had closed their meeting, and were about sixty in number. The first number on the program was the novel manner in which the announcement of the coming nuptial event was made. Small bags tied up with cord were passed to each guest, who upon opening them found contained therein a paper cat on a card with the inscription: "Miss May Brill and Mr. Elmer Markel. The cat is out of the bag." The evening was spent with music and games, Miss Florence Greenland assisting in the musical part of the program by rendering two vocal solos. The presents were carried in to the bride-to-be in a clothes basket, which contained many useful and beautiful gifts for happy pair to start out housekeeping with. Miss Brill soon recovered from her surprise and expressed her appreciation in appropriate words. A committee of ladies from the Rebekah lodge served delicious eats which closed a most enjoyable evening.
