

Almklov-Hoiby.

When O. Almklov, accompanied by his young bride, stepped off the northbound train last Thursday and no one was on hand to greet them with a shower of rice and other evidences with which it is the custom to greet newly wedded couples, he had the satisfaction of knowing that he had successfully sprung a complete surprise on his many friends who would have been only too anxious to have given him a rousing and long-to-be-remembered reception on his return, had they only known—

The wedding took place on Wednesday, December 29, in Moorhead, Minn., and was a very quiet affair, the newly married couple returning the very next day to Hannaford.

Miss Rose Hoiby, the bride, formerly resided at Osakis, Minn. Two years ago she taught a term of school west of town, and has most of the time since been employed as a teacher in the public schools of a neighboring county. She is a young lady of many graces of mind and person, who is capable of filling the home she will adorn with happiness.

The groom, our popular young druggist, is so well known by everybody that he needs no introduction to Enterprise readers. Suffice it to say that he has for a number of years owned a nice little house in this village and the taking unto himself of a wife was a step in the direction of transforming the house into a "home" in the true sense of the word.

The congratulations on the happy event are numerous and this paper is greatly pleased on this occasion to add its hearty good wishes to those being so freely extended.
