

A well known Cooperstown character, Erick J. Blystad, was found dead in his bed Friday morning. He had evidently died Monday night, as he had not been seen since that time. The coroner decided that he had died from a general breakdown of the system. As far as known Blystad had no relatives in this part of the country.