

A. A. Hoffman was called to Jamestown on account of the death of his sister, Mrs. G. Wilson of Clare, Stutsman county, which occurred on Friday evening at the City hospital where she had been for about a week. She was suffering with meningitis and other serious complications as revealed by an autopsy held on the remains. She was operated on for a mastoid abscess several days before her death. The remains were taken to Marstonmoor where they were laid to rest on Sunday afternoon. The deceased was 39 years of age and was born in Iowa. Her husband, parents and brothers and sisters are left to mourn her demise.
