

A marriage of more than usual interest to the editor of this paper took place on Tuesday of this week, June 1, when he and Miss Emma Piper were united by Rev. J. W. Kingston, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Courtenay, assisted by Rev. Morrison, pastor of the M. E. church of Sheldon. The ceremony was performed at the residence of Mrs. E. C. Ward, sister of the bride, at her beautiful farm home two miles east of Sheldon. Only the members of Mrs. Ward's family were present to witness the ceremony, but with two ministers on the rope the knot was tied good and tight. The bride and groom returned to Courtenay on the belated train of Wednesday evening and notwithstanding the lateness of the hour the Courtenay band and a large number of the citizens were at the depot to extend greetings and best wishes for a safe journey across the billowy sea of life.
