

School Notes

George Kellogg returned to school Monday after a week's absence occasioned by an ulcerated tooth.

The door receipts from the school entertainment given at the close of the winter term amounted to just $30. The expenses were $6 for hall rent; $4.97 for material; and $1 for printing. The balance was used in purchasing library books.

Both eight grade and high school finals were recently received. The results of the last examinations were very gratifying.

The weather during the two days that the Horace K. Turner Art Exhibit was on display at the fire hall was very bad. Only a few were able to attend. Those who did attend were well pleased. The proceeds were about sufficient to cover expenses.

The high school pupils are working on an operetta, entitled "The Chaperon," which they plan to render later in the school year.
