

Robert Walker and Tom Crawford left Monday night for Canada to look that country over with a view to securing a homestead and pre-emption. A new law went into effect in that country recently which makes it possible for one person to hold down a half section of land and a good many people are being attracted to that country on account of that law.