

paniment.

J. B. Durkee received the sad intelligence on Monday evening that his oldest sister had died on Sunday morning. She underwent an operation about two weeks before and was reported to be getting along nicely but her condition suddenly changed and she passed away very unexpectedly. The telegram announcing her death was delayed about two days on account of the strike and arrived too late for Mr. Durkee to attend the funeral.

The board of directors of the