

Died in Pennsylvania

Mrs. Fair who lived on a farm at the north end of Jim Lake for a number of years died last week in Pennsylvania where she had been visiting relatives. She was one of the oldest settlers along the Jim river and had a large acquaintance in the northern part of Stutsman county. By those who knew her she is said to have been a noble woman and a good wife and mother. In the early days she suffered the privations of pioneer life without a murmur although suffering from an affliction which finally ended her life.
