

Crum-Ellerman Wedding

Late Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Kate Chase on 3rd avenue south occurred the wedding of Mrs. Lucy Ellerman, who has made her home with Mrs. Chase for the last four years, and Mr. James H. Crum, the well known Jamestown business man, and senior member of the firm of Crum & Lippert. The parlors of the dwelling were prettily decorated with ferns and flowers and Rev. C. H. Phillips read the Episcopal marriage service. Mr. James Rowe acted as best man, Mrs. Rowe, the matron of honor. The bride wearing a handsome going away gown came in on the arm of Russell Chase, who thus served in the place of father of the bride. The strains of the wedding march played by Mrs. Chase were heard during the entrance of the bridal party.

A long table decorated with roses was laid in the dining room and some twenty guests sat down to a delicious wedding supper. In the evening the happy couple left for a wedding trip to eastern points. Their departure was signalized by a shower of rice and other evidences of esteem. After a short trip Mr. and Mrs. Crum will return to their newly prepared home on 5th avenue south, which is now ready for occupancy. —Alert.

The Game Warden and Liar

A Colorado man who is visiting in Wellington told H. L. Woods this story: The game warden of Colorado was walking out in the mountains the other day when he met a hunter with his gun. The officer suggested that that ought to be a good country for hunting.

"It certainly is," said the hunter proudly. "I killed one of the finest bucks yesterday I ever saw, and he weighed over 200." It was the season when deer may not be shot without subjecting the hunter to a heavy fine.

"Well, that is a fine one," said the warden, "and do you know who you are talking to?"

Being assured that he did not, the officer said:

"Why, I am the chief game warden of Colorado."

The hunter was only taken back a moment, when he said:

"And do you know who you are talking to?" The warden did not know.

"Well, sir," said the hunter, apparently much relieved, "you are talking to the biggest liar in the whole state of Colorado." — Kansas City Star.
