

MILNE-PHILLIPS

FRANK MILNE AND MISS GRACE PHILLIPS MARRIED ON SATURDAY EVENING — WENT TO HOUSEKEEPING AT ONCE.

Frank Milne, the youngest son of Mrs. W. A. Milne, and Miss Grace Phillips, the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Phillips, were united in marriage on Saturday evening at the home of the bride's parents who reside on the Kerr farm north of town, the ceremony being performed by Justice George E. Bouer in the presence of a few of the friends and relatives of the contracting parties. Miss Ida Milne acted as bride's maid and Harry Milne acted as best man. The ceremony was performed about seven o'clock in the evening and the young couple came to their home in town shortly afterwards and began housekeeping in the good old fashioned way, and although Mr. Milne has not much more than reached his majority he is numbered among the benedicts of the town.

The writer is probably not any too well informed regarding this matter, but we have been told that the groom came very close to being obliged to be married in his every day trousers and but for the prompt service of a special messenger he would not have been able to wear the clothes which he had provided for the important occasion. The officiating magistrate became so frustrated that he almost forgot the ceremony and had to be prompted and when he got through it was doubted by some of the friends present whether the knot had been securely tied or not. We have also been told that the best man had to support the knees of the groom to enable him to stand during the ceremony, but the bride stood the ordeal with becoming grace and dignity. But they are living as happy as two clams and their many friends are extending congratulations.
