News has reached here that the son of Charlie Johnson died at Filborna, Sweden, on the sixth day of January at the age of twenty years, ten months and seventeen days. Burial was held at that place. Both the young man and his parents were well known here, having lived on a farm north of Courtenay for a number of years before returning to their native land, Sweden, in 1902 to continue their residence there. His many friends will be shocked to learn of his early demise. He has an uncle, Nels Johnson, living north of town, to whom The Gazette is indebted for the information.
