

Herbert Brown, an architect from Jamestown, came up with his motor cycle Monday, assisting the school board in drawing plans and specifications for remodeling and building an addition to the High School, the increased number of pupils having made such a step necessary. The school board have their notice for "bids wanted" elsewhere in this and last week's issue.