

A freight consignment arrived here last Monday which caused more than usual interest. It was the new fire alarm bell which the Volunteer Fire Department recently purchased and it will soon be placed in the tower of the fire hall. The bell is of a large size weighing in the neighborhood of one thousand pounds together with the base and should give sufficient alarm to arouse the residents and members of the department at any future conflagrations. We hope, though, that we will never have occasion to hear it's alarming peals verbrate through the air announcing the impending danger of fire.
