

Lem Hancock opened up a barber shop in the room formerly occupied by O. A. Lohrke as a real estate office, on Friday of last week. He was engaged in the barber business here in partnership with his brother, E. J. Hancock, several years ago but sold out and returned to his former home at St. Louis, Mo. Some people feel that two barber shops in this town will be unable to make it a paying business especially during the winter months and think that a consolidation of the two places would save rent and fuel and bring it on a better paying basis.