

Ira Hayes and John Hendrickson were passengers for Havre, Mont., the fore part of this week to look over land in that part of the country with a view of permanent location. The Montana land fever appears to be increasing daily and may soon assume an epidemical stage.