

Ludvig Olson had a runaway yesterday with his motorcycle. For some reason the machinery refused to work and the 'cycle accumulated speed that was a trifle too swift for Mr. Olson and he concluded to jump before he broke the speed limit. In the mix-up resultant from the high dive he parted with a patch of skin from his right hand, though not of any serious consequence.