

James Reid was a caller at our office yesterday. He stated that he had in possession a sundial which was given to his grand-father and which bears the date of May 9, 1802. He expects to set up the dial where the sun has access to it and regulate his meal hours per sun time. What beats us is how he is going to get supper and breakfast at the proper time so long as the sun rises an hour after breakfast and sets an equal time before supper.
