Paul E. Skjerseth, cashier of the First National bank of this place, left Thursday evening for a month's trip to his old home in Norway where he will revisit the scenes of his university and military days as well as the scenes of his youth. It was just five years upon leaving, since his arrival in the States, and the return to his native land will no doubt be anticipatngly pleasant. George I. Gibbs, assistant cashier at the bank, will look after the business interests of the local institution in Mr. Skjerseth's absence.
