

---

Considerable excitement was caused Tuesday morning when a young and fractious horse belonging to W. H. Tomlinson concluded to make a bee-line for the First National bank building but fortunately was stopped before intruding in that institution and prove himself an unwelcome visitor. Save a few broken straps no damage was done to the outfit.

---