

James Reid lost about forty tons of hay by fire Saturday evening. The stack stood quite close to the barn and for a time it was thought that that could not be saved but the wind was favorable and the fire did not spread from the stack. It is not definitely known how the fire started in the hay but it is supposed that it was done by children playing with matches.