

Peter Skroch, the sixteen year old son of Frank W. Skroch, narrowly escaped serious injury on Saturday. He had been raking hay and when he was returning home the rake dropped down and scared the horses and they ran away and Peter was thrown off and dragged in the rake about twenty-five rods when it struck a culvert and he was released. The horses ran some distance and one of them was hurt but not seriously.