

While Mrs. P. D. Walsh and Miss Mahoney were on their way to Jamestown on Sunday one of the bolts that hold the shafts came out letting the shafts drop down on one side. This scared the horse and he started to run away. The buggy came in contact with a stone pile that happened to be in that vicinity and was turned over, throwing the occupants violently to the ground and bruising them up considerably. But they were able to continue the trip and have returned to Courtenay.
