

SCHOOL.

Thomas C. Barrett of Jamestown died on Thursday night at his home northwest of that city. He was 64 years of age and for the past twelve years had been confined to his bed with sciatic rheumatism. He has lived in Stutsman county since 1879 and in the early days kept the Grand Central hotel of Jamestown. He was the father of Dan Barrett who at one time was engaged in the livery business in Courtenay.