

---

While Albert Rickford and party were returning from the grave-yard last Sunday afternoon, Rickford's two year old child fell over the front of the wagon, and the heavy wagon containing six persons passed over the child's head. Dr. Kerr examined the child and says that it is uninjured excepting the bruises and shaking up it received. The impression of the wagon wheel was left on the child's head and it was lucky that it was not instantly killed.

---