

Obituary.

Charles C. McDonald was born in Lowville, Louis Co. N. Y., May 4th, '46 and came to Wisconsin with his parents when a child, first settling in Wateryille, Waukesha Co. After living there a few years they came to Columbia Co., first settling in Lowville and then afterwards in Portage City, where they resided until 1759, when they returned to Lowville, where Mr. McDonald (having grown to manhood) became engaged in agricultural pursuits and caring for his mother (his father having died previously). About the year 1865 he removed to Marquette, Green Lake Co. In the fall of '72 he was married to Miss Maggie Fairchild, the lady of his choice, also a resident of the same place, he being engaged in the grocery business; also the mail route from Marquette to Ripon. They made their home at that place until about the year 1879 when they moved to Oshkosh, where he became engaged as "manager of construction" on the M. L. S. & W. Ry. which business he followed for five years, then tiring of that he left the road and during the winter traveled through Wisconsin, Dakota, Minnesota and Iowa, visiting his friends, and afterwards going to the great exposition at New Orleans. Returning in the spring of 1885 to his home in Oshkosh, he loaded his effects on the cars and removed to Cooperstown, Griggs county, N. D., settling on his claim and improving same, also working at carpenter and mason trade and later on he became proprietor of the Palace Hotel, where he died Mar. 12th, 1890. He had many friends and was universally respected and loved wherever he was known. He was manly and
