

OBITUARY.

Died—At 2 p. m., April 17th, 1890, at the residence of her mother in Cooperstown, N. D. Miss Carrie Rasnuss, aged 19 years, from congestion of the brain and malarial fever.

Two weeks ago the deceased attended the teachers examination at this place and studied very hard, being anxious to get a certificate, which, it is thought, affected her brain and finally ended with the above results. She was an exemplary young lady, of pleasant disposition, loving and affectionate, and had not an enemy in Griggs county while her friends were legion. During her two years or more residence in Griggs county, she has been a prominent member of society, taking an active part in nearly all social events, and her happy face and sunny smiles will be missed by all her associates of every day life. It is indeed sad for such a promising bud of promise to be cut off by the frost of death. She was only sick a little less than two weeks, and with the exception of a very short time on one or two occasions, was unconscious all the time, up to the time of her death. The stricken mother and her children, have the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community in the hour of their affliction, but they must bear it bravely, and remember that the all wise ruler of the universe doeth all things that seemeth best. The funeral takes place Saturday afternoon at the Baptist church at 1:30.

Dearest Carrie thou has left us,
Here thy loss we deeply feel;
But 'tis God that hath bereft us—
He can still our sorrows heal.
