

---

Mrs. Krogsgard, living four or five miles south of town, had the misfortune to break her collar bone last Sunday evening. She was in the barn attending some cows when one of the animals tried to rush out of the door forcing Mrs. Krogsgard against the door post and causing her to break her collar bone. She was brought to town and Dr. Platou set the bone.

---