

Mrs. M. F. Washburn met with a bad accident last Saturday night, which resulted in the breaking of her collar bone. After her return from town she went into the barn with her horse, when the other horse standing in the stall kicked at the horse Mrs Washburn was attending to, causing the latter animal to jump to one side, throwing Mrs. W. against the studding of the barn and breaking her collar bone. Dr. Platon was called and reduced the fracture and the lady is doing as well as possible under the circumstances, although it will be several weeks before she will be able to do much getting around, which is a great drawback just as harvest has commenced.
