Elias Erickson, living in Greenview township, felt unwell Tuesday of last week, and having taken laudanum for his trouble on similar occasions, and having strychnine in the house and thinking that that poison would have the same effect as the laudanum, took quite a large dose of the poison. He was soon seized with violent cramps in the stomach, and Dr. Phillip was sent for immediately, but death put an end to his sufferings before the doctor arrived. The affair is a very sad one and casts a gloom over the entire neighborhood.—Hope Pioneer.
