

Enoch Anderson, living four miles north of Lakota, met with a very serious accident. He started out hunting and in taking the gun from the wagon the entire charge of goose shot was discharged into his left arm, breaking and mangling it in a horrible manner. The arm was amputated six inches below the shoulder.

---