

The Great Western Elevator at Dazey burned to the ground last Saturday night or early Sunday morning. 1300 bushels of wheat were burned. No one knows how the fire originated but it is expected that it was caused by tramps. The agent, Russell Purinton, says he locked up the elevator close and tight late Saturday night and that everything was then safe. No blame whatever is laid to Mr. Purinton. They say there is not a tramp in Dazey now.
