

William McMordie died at the home of his brother-in-law Mr. Alex. Curry, last Saturday, from lung trouble. He was about 40 years old. The funeral took place Monday, a number of the Workmen of Griggs Lodge No. 13 going out to conduct the ceremonies according to the lodge ritual and the sermon being preached by Rev. E. S. Shaw. The remains were entered in the Cooperstown cemetery. The deceased leaves a widow and one daughter thirteen years old. He was a member of Mayville Lodge A. O. U. W., and carried in that order $2900 insurance which will be paid to his family inside of sixty days. It is a good thing to know that he has provided for his family by belonging to such an excellent order as the United Workmen.
