

Ole K. Kroghs, who lives north of Jessie met with a painful accident last Friday. While working with barbed wire an end came loose, flew up and struck him in the eye, splitting the eye ball. As the pupil was not injured it is possible that he will not lose the sight of his eye entirely.